INCIDENTS OF THE FIGHT AT BALL'S BLUFF
Mr P H Hubbard of Groton communicates to the Worcester City an interesting account of the battle of Ball's Bluff near Groton, Mass. Mr. Hubbard writes that the soldiers after a long and desperate struggle. One little Irishman of company I, belonging to Webster, got six bullet holes.

He said he didn't intend to fire, but they were shabby rascals to spoil his coat, said he should wait but how long while a girl of it remained? Is a coat honor to him? Another innocent was left alone.

His comrades were so stout to bear him from the field, when he was insufficiently near to request their help, that he lay upon his back, where he did his duty bravely, with three wounds in front, until another shot struck him in the leg just below the knee, burying himself in the bone. This last wound was so much for

New York, 8th.
The special Washington dispatch of the Tribune says there is a rumor at Alexandria that the rebel pockets, which two days ago were 11 miles distant, are now but eight miles from the city.

The Herald's despatch contains the following letter from Gen. Blinck to Gen. Scott:
To His Excellency Winfield Scott, General of the Army of the U. S.
Sir, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd inst., and in reply to inform you that the 1st and 2nd regiments of the 1st Maine Heavy Artillery, which were sent to you on the 2nd inst., are now in the hands of the rebels, and are being used by them in the most efficient manner.

so far as ascertained in the 30th regiment, 100 missing, Major McClellan wounded and taken prisoner, 21st regiment, 140 missing, Col. Bledsoe, 1st Maine Heavy Artillery, taken prisoner, and Col. Lyman is reported dangerously wounded. Taylor's battery lost one gun.

We have taken 250 prisoners, a number of whom were wounded. The number of rebels killed was 300. The ground was completely swamped with dead bodies. The rebel Colonel Wright of the 10th Tennessee regiment, killed by Gen. Cheatham, commanded the rebels, both being at Columbus. It is stated that Gen. Johnston was wounded. The gunboats rendered efficient service in covering our retreat, mowing down the rebels, and killing some of our men. A bag of truce left Cairo this morning with 40 or 50 wounded rebels.

A special Fort-Moore despatch says our fleet was bombarding Fort Royal, which was said to be a rebel stronghold and just ready to surrender. The rebel commander had a small escape under his command, and threatened to go on and burn down the vessels of the fleet which had been driven on a lee shore.

The above news comes through a second source, and is claimed to be derived from one of Gen. Hughes' aids. A special despatch to the Tribune says one of the gunboats was disabled by the rebel guns, and another was grounded, and Captain Tamm was about to take her. It was reported at first that the Great Republic was lost, but it was incorrect.

meals, attending to the wants of the wounded and suffering by the Ball's Bluff battle, has arrived here, and leaves tomorrow for Boston to report to Gov. Andrew.

Special despatches from Washington say that the Navy Department expects the reports from the Naval Expedition. The Washington Star says it has received information of important movements of rebellion on the lower Potomac, to the effect that unmistakable indications existed yesterday of the preparation of a force for the South. This confirms the Tribune's despatch.

The gentleman who came under a flag of truce from Norfolk yesterday says he brought all that he knew with regard to the fleet, and that the stories about attributed to him are all false. He says that all he knows is that a dispatch had been received at Norfolk that one of our vessels had been disabled by the rebel batteries, and that another is grounded near Fort Royal. Two vessels had been wrecked on the North Carolina coast—one the Union, the other an unknown. 75 persons had been taken in Raleigh, and 15 horses were saved from the Union. He begs the press generally not to make him responsible for anything he said.

Paymasters are now busy in distributing "monthly" wages to the brigades of Gen. Hunter's division. The time is very opportune as the approaching cold weather induces the soldiers that they are without many of the necessities and luxuries of home.

There is every appearance of the army remaining in this vicinity for some time, unless an emergency requires its presence at another point. Frederick and Hunker have been in position of some importance for supplies. The election yesterday at this part of the State was quietly and temperately conducted. The returns have not yet been fully received owing to the bad condition of the roads.

The following is the report of the U. S. Sanitary Commission upon the condition of the prisoners in the lower Potomac. The report is as follows: "The prisoners in the lower Potomac are in a very bad state of health. They are suffering from lack of food, clothing, and shelter. They are also suffering from lack of medical attention. The Sanitary Commission has been working to improve their condition, but has been unable to do so in many cases. The prisoners are now being moved to other parts of the State, and the Sanitary Commission will continue to work for their improvement."

FRC W MISSOURI.

Price does not intend an attack on our Army.

Hunter will Probably Pursue him to Further.

Enthusiastic Reception of Fremont in St. Louis.

According to information received by Gen. Hunter, it is now said that Gen. Price has no intention of attacking us, and if pursued will further by us he will seek his army and retreat to Fort Smith and make developments on the Potomac and in Kentucky.

It is very doubtful whether any further advance of our army will be made, but further intelligence of the numbers and position of the enemy may change this policy.

Gen. Hunter spent most of yesterday in examining the general condition of the army, and today has gone on a reconnaissance south with his body guard, 400 infantry, a battery and several companies of cavalry.

Brig. Gen. George has been appointed chief of the Staff, and of cavalry on Hunter's Staff.
